

Thrivent Moderately Conservative Allocation Portfolio

Ticker QTMCAx

Inception date June 30, 2005

Objective Thrivent Moderately Conservative Allocation Portfolio seeks long-term capital growth while providing reasonable stability of principal.

Portfolio key points

Thrivent Moderately Conservative Allocation Portfolio is oriented toward principal stability and growth and is diversified across a variety of asset classes with a target allocation of 43% equities and 57% fixed income.

Strategic allocation

Each Thrivent Asset Allocation Portfolio starts with a strategic allocation among the various asset classes calibrated for each risk preference (conservative, moderately conservative, moderate, moderately aggressive and aggressive). The methodology takes into account the historical relative performance and correlations among the asset classes to find a combination for each risk preference on the efficient frontier. This is depicted in the graphic below.

Tactical overlay

The most senior Thrivent Asset Management investment professionals meet weekly to assess potential changes to the asset allocation based on current and expected market conditions. They take into account macro-economic factors such as employment data, inflation rates, changes to government regulations, and other data that may help bridge the gap between historical data and current realities.

Selecting securities

The management team invests in Thrivent mutual funds, but also purchases individual securities in asset classes and sectors that may not be represented by another Thrivent mutual fund. This provides additional diversification and more flexibility to invest across a wide variety of investments. The managers also use derivatives (without leverage) to implement tactical changes and efficiently allocate incoming cash flows.

Risks: The Portfolio’s value is influenced by a number of factors, including the performance of the broader market, the effectiveness of the Adviser’s allocation strategy, and risks specific to the Portfolio’s asset classes, market cap groups, investment styles, security type (such as private equity) and issuers. Debt securities are subject to risks such as declining prices during periods of rising interest rates and credit risk, or the risk that an issuer may not pay its debt. The Adviser is also subject to actual or potential conflicts of interest. The use of derivatives (such as futures) involves additional risks and transaction costs. Foreign investments involve additional risks, such as currency fluctuations and political, economic and market instability, which may be magnified for investments in emerging markets. U.S. government securities may not be fully guaranteed by the U.S. government and issues may not have the funds to meet their payment obligations. The value of U.S. government securities may be affected by changes in credit ratings, which may be negatively impacted by rising national debt. High yield securities are subject to increased credit risk as well as liquidity risk. The Adviser’s assessment of investments may prove incorrect, resulting in losses or poor performance. The use of quantitative investing techniques and mortgage-related and other asset-backed securities also involve additional risks. The Portfolio invests in other funds; therefore, the Portfolio is dependent upon the performance of the other funds and is subject to the risks, additional fees and expenses of the other funds. When interest rates fall, certain obligations will be paid off more quickly and proceeds may have to be invested in securities with lower yields. These and other risks are described in the prospectus.

The Portfolio is only available to the public through a variable life or variable annuity product. Contact the applicable insurance company for more information and a contract prospectus which will include information on the additional charges and fees that apply to the specific contract.

Before investing, investors should consider carefully the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of a portfolio and the variable insurance product. This and other important information is contained in the portfolio and variable insurance product prospectuses, which may be obtained from a financial professional or by contacting the applicable insurance company. Read them carefully before investing.
