Portfolio Description

This portfolio seeks to provide access to a portfolio of health sciences and related industry companies. Investments may include companies that are engaged in the development, production or distribution of pharmaceutical, generic, biotechnology and medical technology products or services. The Portfolio invests primarily in domestic small, medium and large companies and may invest in companies located outside of the United States.

Investment Strategy/Process

The portfolio management team strives to identify companies and industries that appear to have the potential for above-average returns or are expected to show above-average growth over the long-term, as well as those that appear to be trading below their true worth. They seek to build a portfolio with at least 80% of its net assets invested in the healthcare industry under normal conditions, with diverse exposure across the four healthcare subsectors, including healthcare equipment and supplies, healthcare providers and services, biotechnology and pharmaceuticals. The team conducts both industry and company analysis and considers a wide variety of factors including the political, economic and regulatory environments, growth drivers, margin trends, and the marketability of a company's products and services, as well as its competitive position, financial strength and valuation.

Risks: Healthcare companies are subject to numerous risks including legislative or regulatory changes and adverse market conditions. The Portfolio's value is influenced by a number of factors, including the performance of the broader market, and risks specific to the Portfolio's asset classes, investment styles, and issuers. Small- and medium-sized companies often have greater price volatility and less liquidity than larger companies. Markets may also be impacted by domestic or global events, including public health threats, terrorism, natural disasters or similar events. The Adviser's assessment of investments may prove incorrect, resulting in losses or poor performance. Foreign investments involve additional risks, such as currency fluctuations and political, economic and market instability, which may be magnified for investments in emerging markets. These and other risks are described in the prospectus.
