

Thrivent Multidimensional Income Fund

Ticker: TMLDX (Class S)

Inception: Feb. 28, 2017

Objective: Thrivent Multidimensional Income Fund seeks a high level of current income and, secondarily, growth of capital.

Fund key points

Thrivent Multidimensional Income Fund is highly diversified across income-producing securities and may provide increased yield and diversification to a core bond portfolio.

Diversified and tactical

This Fund has the majority of its assets invested in securities that produce a high level of income. The portfolio managers make tactical adjustments as market conditions change. The Fund is expected to have a lower correlation to traditional fixed-income securities such as corporates or government bonds, but will also have higher risk.

Seeks high income

A large segment of the Fund is allocated to “core plus” sectors that have traditionally produced high levels of income. The Fund also invests opportunistically in nontraditional asset classes that the managers believe will produce a high level of income and growth. At the core is a small allocation to traditional fixed-income securities to help reduce volatility.

A tested team

The Fund is managed in a style similar to other Thrivent Mutual Funds, including the series of Thrivent Income Plus Funds. The team makes tactical allocations based on valuations and yields, while sector analysts are responsible for thoroughly researching securities and finding new opportunities.

Risks: The Fund's value is influenced by a number of factors, including the performance of the broader market, and risks specific to the Fund's asset classes, investment styles, and issuers. Debt securities are subject to risks such as declining prices during periods of rising interest rates and credit risk, or the risk that an issuer not pay its debt. High yield securities are subject to increased credit risk as well as liquidity risk. Closed-end funds, preferred securities, convertible securities, sovereign debt, and mortgage-related and other asset-backed securities are subject to additional risks. Foreign investments involve additional risks, such as currency fluctuations and political, economic and market instability, which may be magnified for investments in emerging markets. The London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) is being phased out, which brings uncertainty to instruments tied to it. Markets may also be impacted by domestic or global events, including public health threats, terrorism, natural disasters or similar events. The value of U.S. government securities may be affected by changes in the credit rating of the U.S. government and may not be fully guaranteed by the U.S. government. The Adviser's assessment of investments may prove incorrect, resulting in losses or poor performance. The Adviser is also subject to actual or potential conflicts of interest. The Fund invests in other funds managed by the Adviser or an affiliate and in directly-held equity and debt instruments. The Fund is dependent upon the performance of the other funds and is subject to the risks and additional fees and expenses of the other funds. When bond inventories are low in relation to the market size, there is the potential for decreased liquidity and increased price volatility. The use of derivatives such as futures also involve risks. These and other risks are described in the prospectus.
